JSL presents annual award to dedicated member

GRAND JUNCTION — The Junior Service League of Grand Junction recently presented Sheryl VanHole the esteemed Patti Milius Service Award. The award is given annually to one woman of the service club for her outstanding contribution to her community. “What a privilege to have my service work with JSL be acknowledged. I am very passionate about giving back to the community by volunteering to raise money for our events that helps those in need. I feel very honored to be chosen as the recipient of this prestigious award,” said VanHole.

“Sheryl is such a hard worker in JSL and the community and is very deserving of this award and is certainly deserving to be recognized for all of her hard work,” said Patti Milius, who presented her namesake award to VanHole.

VanHole has been involved with JSL for the past 17 years and continues to dedicate her time to the organization, her community, and her career as a Health Promotion Administrator for Rocky Mountain Health Plans.

Junior Service League is a service club of women committed to working together to improve the community through effective volunteerism and fundraising. As active, capable women who are dedicated to make a difference in the community and educate members regarding community issues and leadership, Junior Service League has given back over $600,000 in the 25 years of its existence.
